Jump on our next Majoriti Mission with people who think like you do: curious, ambitious, multidisciplinary. Together, we tackle real problems, build meaningful prototypes, and rediscover the spark of creating something that matters — making work feel alive again.

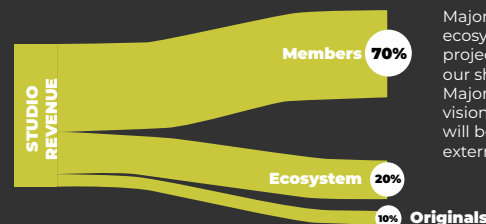

APPLICATION

What happens after you apply?

After completing a Mission, you can officially apply to join the ecosystem. This is where we get to know you more deeply: your strengths, motivations, and the direction you want to grow.

If you join, we'll shape your member profile and match you with opportunities that fit your path, whether that means incubating your own idea in The Greenhouse, contributing to Majoriti Originals, or applying your craft through The Studio

Self-sustaining ecosystem

Majoriti strives to become a self-sustaining ecosystem, where value is circulated among its projects. Profits from The Studio are used to fund our shared infrastructure and reinvested into Majoriti Originals; commercial work supports the visionary work. Our long-term aim is that ventures will be collectively owned by members, not by external stakeholders with competitive interests.
